

Andrija Mihajlov

Historian and researcher in the field of Holocaust studies, focusing on the position of Jews in occupied Serbia, with particular attention to the experiences of Jewish children during the Second World War.

Academic Employment

- June 2024 –
Research Assistant, Institute for Philosophy and Social Theory (IFDT),
ShoahLab

Research Interests

Holocaust; history of Nazism; occupied Serbia during the Second World War; antisemitism;
propaganda

Publications

Journal Articles / Book Chapters:

- Mihajlov, A. (2024), "Jews in the Anti-Communist Propaganda of the Collaborationist Daily Novo vreme in Occupied Serbia in 1941," in Pisari, M. and Radojković, S. (eds.), Perspectives on the Study of the Holocaust and Genocide. Belgrade: Institute for Philosophy and Social Theory.
- Mihajlov, A. (2025), "The Čelebići Camp – War and the Transformation of a Local Community," in Popović, D. (ed.), Sources and Actors: New Approaches to the Study of the Yugoslav Wars of the 1990s. Belgrade: Građanske inicijative.

Contact

- @ andrija.mihajlov@ifdt.bg.ac.rs
- @ andrijamihajlov@gmail.com

Education

2023 –
PhD Studies, Faculty of Philosophy, University of Belgrade
Department of History
(Chair of General
Contemporary History)
Dissertation topic:
Jewish Children in the Holocaust in Occupied
Serbia (1941–1944)

2021 – 2023
MA in History, Faculty of Philosophy, University of Niš
GPA: 10.00

2016 – 2021
BA in History, Faculty of Philosophy, University of Niš
GPA: 9.49

Languages

- English – advanced
- German – intermediate
- Greek – basic

Book Reviews

- Mihajlov, A. (2023), Kolaboracionistička štampa u Srbiji 1941–1944, Vol. 3, ed. Aleksandar Stojanović. Belgrade: Filip Višnjić; Institute for Recent History of Serbia, 2023. Published in Tokovi istorije, 32(3), pp. 277–280.

Conferences

- Mihajlov, A. (2025, October 1–4), “The Kestenberga Archive in Yugoslavia: Oral History of Jewish Children in the Holocaust,” International Conference: History of Yugoslavia: Perspectives of Young Researchers from the Post-Yugoslav Area (Belgrade, Serbia)